“ I remember when Nancy and Grandma came out to visit. My mom and dad took us all for a drive to the mountains and it was snowing. To see snow was a big deal for us kids. We lived in Phoenix an never saw snow. So I was going to hit Nancy with a snow ball when she came out of the store. I was waiting and packing that snow ball. When she came out I got her in the eye. She had the biggest black eye and I felt so bad. I never thought my packing would turn it into a rock. She forgave me with lots of hugs and kisses. I'll never forget those kisses. I love you aunt Nancy. Rest In Peace and give my mom a kiss from me.

Connie, that's a great story; one I've never heard. Thank you so much for sharing it with us. At the end, I was reassuring mom that it was OK to let go by telling her that, among others, your mom was waiting anxiously with open arms. I hoped she would find it comforting.

“ I will always remember the time when Aunt Nancy lived with the Frank Norton family. She enjoyed our teen years. My sister taught her to Jitterbug. We turned on the radio and danced often. She was like a sister to us Her children were born at the same time as ours so we always felt that Robin, Julie and Steven were nieces and nephew. Nancy and I stayed in touch through countless letters during our lifetime. I consider her loss as the end of an era. Nancy is the last of her siblings and she is now united with her loving parents and her 3 siblings. Her love and friendship will be remembered.

When I was looking back on my life with mom this week, I too thought of music, dancing, and letter writing! You and your siblings meant the world to mom. I always felt that she was a different person in your presence, that she came into her own. Most of the time, she was wife and mom, but when she was with you, she was just one of the girls. You brought out so much of her playfulness, and it was always fun to see.
