“ I was on a waterfall tour vacation when I heard that Russ had passed away. That morning, shortly after I read the text about Russ, I started seeing butterflies. We had not seen any previously. This was significant to me as I view butterflies as a sign of transition. After seeing a log formation that also resembled a butterfly, I was deeply moved. I mentioned the butterflies to my husband and asked him if it could possibly be Russ coming to say, "Goodbye". Just then a butterfly landed on a bush near us and stayed there. I moved toward it and it flew 3 feet away and stayed there as we talked. When we moved again, it moved again and waited there. After three moves, I said, "Thanks, Russ." and the butterfly flew away.
